Hey [Friend's Name],

I hope you're doing well! I just had to share some exciting news-I've finally picked a name for my new pet, and it feels just perfect.

You remember how I was completely stuck on what to call her? She's such a little bundle of energy with these bright, curious eyes and the softest fur I've ever seen. After spending a few days just getting to know her, I realized that every time she discovered something new, she'd make this endearing little sound-almost like a chirp!

So after much thought (and a lot of failed options), I decided to name her Chirpy. It just fits her so well. The name came to me after I watched her pounce on a sunbeam and then make her signature noise. It immediately struck me that her personality is just as sunny and vibrant as her playful antics. Plus, every time I say "Chirpy," she seems to respond with extra enthusiasm, as if she approves too!

Choosing her name felt special because it really captures her spirit and the joy she brings into my life. Every time I call her, I'm reminded of that first day she arrived-so wide-eyed and ready for adventure. I wanted a name that felt light-hearted and loving, something that reflects how much she means to me already.

I can't wait for you to meet Chirpy soon! You'll see just how much her name suits her. Let me know when you're free for a visit-you have to see her in action!

Take care and talk soon,

[Your Name]
