Dear Grandma and Grandpa,

I hope this letter finds you both in great health and happiness. I miss you very much and often remember the lovely times we spent together last summer. Today, I am writing to share some exciting news about my recent exam results.

My final exam results were announced last week, and I am very happy to tell you that I did well in all my subjects! I scored 92% in English, 88% in Mathematics, 90% in Science, and 95% in Social Studies. I also got good marks in Hindi and Computer Science. My teachers appreciated my hard work and even praised my improvement compared to last year.

I worked really hard for these exams, and your support and blessings always encouraged me to do my best. Whenever I felt tired, I remembered your words of motivation and the prayers you always send my way. Thank you for believing in me!

I wish you both could come visit soon, so I could show you my certificates and share my experiences in person. Please take care of yourselves and let me know if you need anything. Give my love to Grandma and Grandpa!

Looking forward to your reply.
Lots of love,

Your loving grandson,
Rahul
