

Dear Mom and Dad,

I hope this letter finds you both well! I've been missing home a lot lately, so I thought I'd update you about how things have been going here, especially on the academic front.

First of all, I'm excited to share that I got an A on my latest math exam! I was really nervous about it, but all the extra studying paid off. My professor even commented on my improvement, which made my whole week. I'm also working on a group project in biology that's turning out to be really interesting-we're researching different types of ecosystems and presenting our findings next month. Wish me luck!

Not everything has been smooth sailing, though. I've been finding the literature class a bit challenging, especially keeping up with all the readings. But I'm getting some help from classmates and trying to stay organized, so I think it'll get easier as I go along.

Looking ahead, I'm planning to apply for a summer internship at the museum downtown. I think it would be a great way to gain some experience and learn outside the classroom. I'll keep you posted as I hear back from them.

I really appreciate all the support and encouragement you give me-it means a lot, especially during the busy times. I can't wait to see you during the upcoming break and tell you more about everything in person!

Sending lots of love,
