

Character Reference Letter for Child Custody Case (Template)

A character reference letter for child custody case is a formal document written to provide insight into the parent's qualities, behavior, and suitability as a custodian. This letter typically highlights the individual's parenting skills, moral values, stability, and relationship with the child, assisting the court in making informed decisions. For example, the letter might describe how the parent consistently attends school events, demonstrates responsibility, and fosters a nurturing environment, thereby supporting their capability to provide a loving and secure home for the child.

Re: Character Reference for Amanda Hill in Child Custody Case

Dear Judge Evans,

I am writing to provide a character reference for Amanda Hill in regards to the custody proceedings involving her daughter, Lily Hill. I have been Amanda's neighbor and close friend for over eight years, and I have continually observed her commitment and love as a mother.

Amanda is deeply involved in Lily's daily life, regularly volunteering at her school and participating in extracurricular activities. She manages a stable home environment, teaches values such as kindness and responsibility, and ensures that Lily's emotional and physical needs are continually met.

Amanda is a responsible, positive role model who prioritizes Lily's well-being in every decision she makes. I am confident in Amanda's ability to provide a nurturing and supportive home for her daughter.

Please contact me if you need any additional information.

Sincerely,
Jessica Rayner
