

Character Reference Letter for Pardon Application

A character reference letter for pardon application is a formal document written by someone who can attest to the applicant's good moral character and rehabilitation since their conviction. This letter typically highlights the individual's positive traits, contributions to society, and reasons why they deserve a pardon. For example, a character reference might state, "I have known John for over ten years, during which he has demonstrated responsibility, honesty, and dedication to community service. He has shown genuine remorse and has made significant efforts to improve himself." Such letters support the pardon application by providing credible testimonials that the applicant has changed and merits forgiveness.

To Whom It May Concern,
I am writing to recommend John Mitchell for a pardon. I have had the privilege of knowing John for over ten years as his supervisor at Community Outreach Center. Throughout this time, John has demonstrated exceptional character, integrity, and a strong commitment to community service. After his conviction, John took profound steps to rehabilitate himself. He became deeply involved in community service, volunteering over 500 hours to support local families in need. I am confident that John Mitchell is a changed man who now serves as a role model for others. Granting him a pardon would not only recognize his rehabilitation but also bring hope and inspiration to others. Thank you for your time and consideration.
Sincerely,
Emily Stevens
