

Informal Letter to Brother on Raksha Bandhan

Dear Brother,

Happy Raksha Bandhan! As this wonderful festival of love and bond between siblings arrives, I can't help but think of all the special moments we've shared together. Tying a Rakhi on your wrist every year is not just a tradition, but a heartfelt reminder of how much you mean to me.

I still remember our childhood rakhi celebrations-how we'd race to the sweet shop, fight for the bigger ladoo, and laugh till our tummies hurt. Those memories are treasures I'll cherish forever! No matter where life takes us, this bond remains unbreakable and precious.

Thank you for always being my protector, supporter, and friend. Your advice and encouragement mean the world to me, even if I don't say it enough. Today, as I send my rakhi and best wishes, I want you to know how grateful I am for all your love and care.

I hope this Raksha Bandhan brings you joy, success, and good health. May you always find happiness in whatever you do, and may our bond grow even stronger with each passing year!

Missing you a lot today! Hope we can celebrate together soon. Until then, accept my love, blessings, and a big virtual hug!

With lots of love,
Your sister
